Roamly Groups — V1 GTM

Goal: Acquire PLG / D2C

THE BET Win high-income Bay Area tech professionals (25–35) traveling abroad in friend groups — by killing coordination friction so the group's organizer adopts Roamly Groups and pulls everyone else on to book.

TARGET

We acquire groups, not users

Bay Area tech pros, 25–35, high income, Splitwise-fluent, already traveling abroad with friends (Europe & Asia first).

Every group has one person who picks dates, builds the spreadsheet, fronts the deposit, and chases repayment. We sell to that organizer — and they recruit the other four.

VALUE PROPOSITION

Stop being the group's accountant

One place to see who's in, who's paid, what's booked. Everyone books their own piece. Nobody owes you money at the end.

Lead with the relief, not the dashboard. And don't promise "one click" — promise the outcome.

CHANNEL — PLG ISN'T A CHANNEL

Spread inside the group

1. Viral invite loop (the engine). Invited friends see the trip and pay with no signup wall. Works, or nothing else matters.
2. Seed organizers direct. Engineer/nomad communities, referrals for a full group. "Stop being your friend group's Venmo."
3. Paid, last. Only once the loop converts. No sales motion — D2C, self-serve.

SUCCESS METRIC

A signup is not acquisition

NORTH STAR Group activation rate

= 3+ members book a real trip per group. Tests the whole loop.

Lead: time to first group booking.

Kill switch: signups without activation → stop paid.

Watch: invite acceptance · free-to-pay (Phase 2).

CUT FROM V1

- ✕ Multi-geography (US/EU/LATAM) — Phase 2.
- ✕ Local-expert payments — different business, parked.
- ✕ The other four segments — bet's made.

RESOLVE FIRST

1. ARPU: more margin per group, or just stickier? One line before any spend.
2. Painkiller or vitamin? Do trips die on payments, or on flaking & budget fights?
3. The 3× repeat-booking signal — real data, or aspiration?

First draft. Segment and motion are sound. Resolve ARPU and painkiller-vs-vitamin before this circulates wider.
